

eBay ADS 2020 Fall Auction #1 September 12-21, 2020

Donated by Jaydee Ager, USA, 2 sets (3 +2)

N. papyraceus Div. 13 Jaydee writes, "In 2005, by permit, Mary Lou Gripshover collected a bulb from a unique group of blooming N. papyraceus, near the ruins of the ancient Castle of Salir, close to Salir, Portugal. Mary Lou recorded in her field notes, "this group seemed unique and considerably smaller than the others nearby". The village of Salir sits at an elevation of 820' above sea level and is located in south central Portugal, approximately 20 miles from the Atlantic Ocean.

Upon her return home, Mary Lou potted up the bulb and hoped to be able to grow it in her area near Cincinnati, OH. She devotedly kept the pot in a wagon and rolled it in and out of her garage during severe cold. The bulb increased and persisted -- but never flourished. A few years later, Mary Lou gave the pot to Jaydee Ager, saying, "This needs a good home in Georgia." This little gem has flourished in its new home. Showcasing its glistening white color and perfect form, this small tazetta begins to bloom for Jaydee at Christmas time. It blooms profusely and sporadically for the next couple of months, throwing many secondary scapes. Sub zero middle Georgia temperatures occurring during blooming, have no negative effect on this little trooper. The small round bulbs are mahogany colored and are a work of art. This species multiplies like rabbits for Jaydee, in her USDA Zone 8b climate. DaffSeek indicates N. papyraceus is seed and pollen fertile.

Surely hybridizers would like to include this diminutive hearty species, with its stunning white color and form, into their breeding program! From Portugal, to Ohio, to Georgia ~ and now ready for your garden, for a high bid!

N. pachybolus: Div. 13 Has been hardy outdoors in Georgia and Virginia.
